THE MOON AS KNOWN AT THE PRESENT TIME. Ye sacred muses, with whose beauty fir d, My soul is ravish d, and my brain inspir d. Whose priest I am, whose holy fillets wear; Would you your poet s first petition hear; Give me the ways of wandering stars to know: The depths of heav n above, and earth below. Teach me the various labours of the moon, And whence proceed th eclipses of the sun. Why flowing tides prevail upon the main, And in what dark recess they shrink again. What shakes tho solid earth, what cause delays The summer nights, and shortens winter days. VIRGIL. The picture on the title-page is probably the best and minutest view of the moon, that has ever been laid before the public. Most of our readers are aware that the mountains and hollows of the moon have been accurately and thoroughly mapped by astronomers, and baptized by appropriate names. For the benefit of meritorious students of astronomical geography, we subjoin the names of all those which have been christened. At the present season it will amply repay the possessor of a small telescope to identify the several localities with the aid of the map. In olden time the moon was a goddess. Whatever the ignorant mind of the time was incapable of grasping was supernatural. Thus arose the pale, chaste Deity of the Night, robed in virgin white, roaming dreamily under the partial shade...
